

SCENAR COSMODIC PS705mini

SCENAR COSMODIC PS705mini is a personal-use SCENAR-COSMODIC series model employing COSMODIC technology. Fully automated action and operation. Very power-saving.

The “smallest” COSMODIC. This is the case when size doesn’t matter — it is as capable as the “bigger” models.

Innovations

Tiny, affordable and incredibly easy to use, the PS705mini is the first take-anywhere model providing benefits of COSMODIC technology within such a small size.

You will not need remote electrodes with it — two types of built-in electrodes allow you to treat both large and small/hard-to-reach areas.

Main features

- touch switch-on
- regulating action energy automatically
- “dynamic adaptation” mode allowing you to manage stimulation during prolonged action automatically
- determining areas for action
- LED and sound indication;
- switching sound off and on

LED indication displays:

- contact of the electrodes with skin
- preliminary analysis of the treated area
- levels of action energy
- body reaction
- end of the action dose
- battery status

Electrodes

Electrodes are made of special steel which has a pyramidal structure. An important peculiarity of such kind of steel is that chrome does not penetrate into skin due to electrolysis process occurring during action. Model PS705mini has two built-in electrodes. The electrode on the front-end part of the casing is made as a separate small electrode and performs functions of a remote electrode.

Casing

SCENAR COSMODIC PS705 mini is encased in «Pocket S» series casing. Waterproof keyboard and sealants make disinfection and cleaning of the device easy. The casing is made of shockproof (3 mm thick) ABS plastic.
